Nærvær is the Danish word for presence, the concept at heart of this simple table by Norm Architects that invites you to be present. Whether connecting over a conversation or a cosy meal, it's all about being intimate and in the moment.

Ironically, the design of Nærvær is so simple it doesn't impose its own presence on a space. Pronounced "naer-vaer", it's comprised of a powder coated, circular steel base and cylindrical stem supporting a round or square laminate table top. Don't miss the oak veneer along the table top edges, a discrete detail in a design that could easily fit into a corner or a crowded space. Allowing you to focus on the space and the people who fill it.

"Nærvær addresses our fundamental need to connect with each other," notes &tradition CEO/ Founder Martin Kornbek Hansen. "The design has only what you need and not what you don't. It also eliminates the need for four legs, which you typically see in tables. The result is a table that lets you get closer. Literally. Ideal for creating a sense of intimacy almost anywhere."
